Here is a family that works together indefatigably, and happily reaches out to us all who appreciate the best.

Lately, Lynn introduced us to the new world of exciting designs known as Zadig & Voltaire.

A brand named after an 18th century novella about fate by the Enlightenment author Voltaire.

Founded by Thierry Gillier in 1997, the designs are his interpretations of today’s street fashion, made only from luxury fabrics such as silk, cashmere and his specially developed cotton jersey.

Sweaters, skinny jeans, t-shirts, plus leather goods of the moment.

The fashion-forward collections sport a distinct style and sensibility that appear ageless.

Thierry is the grandson of Andre Gillier, the 1933 co-founder of Lacoste clothing, inspired by the French tennis champion Rene Lacoste.

Thierry’s renowned collections include designs for women, men and children that mirror a rock spirit and Bohemian style.

Ideal for the young at heart, and not to be missed.

Overseen by Bronwyn Lund and Richard Birriola, Zadig & Voltaire is based in the Sunset Plaza neighborhood at 8640 W. Sunset Blvd. in West Hollywood. Store hours are Monday through Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., and Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Telephone: 310-958-9616.

A prologue to our column last week announcing Georgette Mosbacher was appointed by our U.S. Senate as the next Ambassador of Poland, we were remiss, due to space, for not revealing her backstory.

An Indiana University graduate, born in Highland Indiana, Georgette worked at three jobs to support her education.

Her marriages include Hollywood developer Bob Muir; the CEO of the fragrance giant Faberge, George Barrie; and Robert Mosbacher, the Secretary of Commerce under President George H.W. Bush in 1989. Becoming a leading hostess in our nation’s capital.

At one point, Georgette established her own business empire with foreign investors, buying the struggling cosmetic company La Prairie for $30 million. By 2001, she became the CEO of the Borghese cosmetics group until her retirement in 2015. When she devoted her life to politics and raising monies for charities.

“T o create the life you deserve, you have to go for it,” she philosophizes, “The universe that you inhabit flows from you – you don’t flow from it.”
